Homage to Vajrasattva!

Practitioners wishing to attain the siddhis, should, with a mind of firm renunciation, go to a solitary place, go for refuge in the three jewels, arouse the mind of supreme enlightenment, and strive in gathering the accumulations, the seven branches.

I prostrate to the vajra of non-declining emptiness and to the compassionate heroic being, to the one who brings together all families, the lord who encompasses all things and compose “The Essence of Activity”. Based on that by the small ritual of activity I wish to gather the accumulations for my own benefit and for the benefit of others I wish to send the consciousness of the deceased to a pure realm.

If there is just a representation like a painting for the front visualization that is enough. If there is none, arrange the heaps of a mandala. If neither comes together, it is also sufficient to imagine it in the space in front. In any case arrange amrita and rakta at the right and left of the round deity torma decorated with ornaments and lay out the outer offerings in front. Gather the cleansed water and whichever articles you have for the ganacakra.

When you perform the purification ritual in front of the mandala bring together things like a vase, filled with nectar, adorned by a lid-ornament and a ribbon tied around the neck, a torma for the obstructers, sand pills, mustard seeds, a listing of names, food and butter lamps.

At first start by taking refuge and cultivating bodhicitta. Perform the self-visualization along with the recitation according to the terma root text “Secret Essence”. Next follows the front visualization. At the beginning of this activity imagine the cleansed water.

Through RAM YAM KHAM impurities are cleared away. From within emptiness the syllable BHRUM appears from which a broad skull-cup of space arises. Therein are the skandhas, dhatus, five kinds of meat and five kinds of nectar. Through the connection of fire and wind they are melting into light. The light of the three seed-syllables invites the nectar of the five kinds of wisdom. It gets absorbed inseparably. Offering clouds of desirables emanate. OM AH HUNG. Three times.
